

Abstract

Methods and apparatus for using an operator service trigger at a telephone switch are described. A service control point is used to distinguish between non-operator service
5 calls (0+ calls) and operator service calls (0- calls) using AIN logic at an SCP based on a trigger type identifier.